Celebrating Yale's Most Generous Annual Donors

BECOME A SCHOLARSHIP DONOR WITH A GIFT OF $10,000 OR MORE

Alumni Fund donors have a proud history of supporting Yale and its students. Those who support the Alumni Fund with gifts of $10,000 or more may name a one-year undergraduate scholarship after whomever they wish – themselves, a loved one, or a classmate – and will receive a profile of the recipient.

YOUR IMPACT: SUPPORTING PROMISING STUDENTS

Lianna Byler MY '24

Having grown up on a farm in Pennsylvania, Lianna has big plans to help protect rural communities like hers from climate change.

"I intend to get involved with agriculture policy and sustainable development," she explains.

"I want to give back to ensure these places and the people who live there can adapt." Lianna has found community at Yale within her residential college and in groups like Students for Environmental Policy Analysis. Reflecting on her path to Yale, she says, "Financial aid is the reason I'm here. Without it, none of this would be possible for me. I'm so grateful to have the chance to make the most of these incredible opportunities."

Rudy Cordero TC '24

After earning his associate's degree, Rudy came to Yale to further his study of computer science.

"I knew that I wanted to pursue my education further, but I wasn't sure I could afford it," Rudy says. "I'm incredibly grateful for Yale's commitment to financial advocacy and allowing me to attend an institution like this without having to think, 'how does my family continue to eat?' I want to help others who come from the same type of neighborhood that I did that didn't have an amazing education system, but whose parents tried really hard to get them the skill sets that they needed to just get through high school and try to go to college."

THE NATHAN HALE ASSOCIATES PROGRAM

All alumni, parents, and friends are invited to join the Nathan Hale Associates.

Support for the Alumni Fund at every level enhances the core experience for undergraduates at Yale. Donors are recognized according to the amount they contribute each fiscal year.
